

CCAS Annual Meeting Update:

PLEASE NOTE: THE FAX FOR CCAS IS 480-727-6078, NOT 6064 AS LISTED ON THE PREREGISTRATION FORM.

Also Note: If you have not received a faxed confirmation of your registration, please contact the CCAS office. We have had many institutions send the registration forms through the purchasing departments to be sent with the registration fee. In some cases, these forms may not have been received. Your registration must be received by October 11, 2002 to be eligible for the Early Bird Registration fee.

A Reminder from the Program Chair: Send in your registration for the Annual CCAS Meeting in San Francisco, November 13-16, 2002. In these difficult budgetary times, this opportunity to network with fellow deans is more important than ever. In addition to the program, the preliminary version of which you have received, the conversation with those facing the same, or worse, problems will be of inordinate value. Remember, too, that you do your institution no good if you burn yourself out or insulate yourself from ideas.

I hope to see each of you in San Francisco in a month. Geoff Feiss, Program Chair

Deans' Seminar Goes International -- to Paris

Next May, CCAS in collaboration with the Association of American and International Colleges and Universities (AAICU) will hold a deans' seminar in Paris. As a follow up to the deans' seminar this past April on "Internationalization: Curricula, Students, and Faculty," plans are underway to expand beyond this topic and to invite joint participation of deans of American universities in Europe, the Middle East, and North Africa with deans from North American colleges and universities. The seminar will focus on topics developed from the deans' seminar on internationalization as well as expanding to other topics of mutual interest to CCAS and AAICU members. If you have suggestions for such topics, please contact Joe Danks (Kent State University; jdanks@kent.edu). The other members of the organizing committee are Marc Montheard (The American University of Paris), Judith Kirkpatrick (Texas Wesleyan University), and Susan Coultrap-McQuin (Minnesota State University, Mankato). The conference will be held at the American University of Paris, tentatively on May 28-31, 2003. Registration materials will be mailed in October.

Ernie Peck Accepts Graduate Post at United Arab Emirates University

In late July 2002 Ernie Peck, Executive Director of CCAS since 1998, sent the following letter to David Young, Secretary-Treasurer of CCAS:

Regarding: Resignation Effective June 30, 2003

Dear David,

This letter is to inform you of my intention to resign my post as Executive Director of CCAS effective June 30, 2003. A unique opportunity has been offered me, to serve as Dean of Graduate Studies at the United Arab Emirates University in Al-Ain, UAE. As you know, I have worked for some years as a consultant to UAE's national university and its chancellor. This challenging opportunity will afford a capstone to my forty-plus years in the academy while allowing Fran and I to experience an ancient, but for us new, culture.

I wish to thank the Council of Colleges of Arts and Sciences, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and Arizona State University for my opportunity as Executive Director of CCAS for what will be five-plus years next June. As they say in various sports arenas, it's been a great ride. CCAS is as fine an organization as I have ever encountered, a collaboration of extraordinary individuals who work hard and long hours for their own colleges and then find time for the collective whole. CLAS and the Dean's Office are a wonderful group of caring and supportive folk. Fran and I will miss them all. ASU is a fine university with which I am proud to have been associated. I wish to thank you and Gary Krahenbuhl for allowing me to be a part of this organization.

David, Fran and I wish to make the transition to a new CCAS executive team as smooth as possible. We pledge our best efforts in this regard. Fran will remain in the CCAS office for six months after my departure to assist with the transition.* We will both work with you and the CCAS officers and Board to see that CCAS is well served in the change. To begin this process, copies of this letter will be sent to all CCAS officers and directors.

Again, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Ernie Peck
Executive Director

*Fran has decided to stay on with CCAS into 2004.

2003 CCAS SEMINARS

2002 CCAS Annual Meeting

The 2002 CCAS Annual Meeting will be held November 13-16, 2002 at the Hyatt Regency San Francisco in the Embarcadero Center of San Francisco, California. Panels, workshops, and plenary sessions fill three days with networking and professional development opportunities. The preliminary program and registration materials were mailed in early August 2002. P. Geoffrey Feiss, Dean, College of William and Mary and President-elect, CCAS, is the Chair of the Program Committee.

2003 CCAS Deans' Seminar

The CCAS Deans' Seminar is scheduled for April 10-11 at the Hyatt Regency San Antonio on the Riverwalk in San Antonio, Texas. The focus of the seminar will be "Deans and Development," with participants divided into two groups according to the size and complexity of the institution and its development mission. David A. Young (Dean, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Arizona State University and Secretary-Treasurer of CCAS) is the Seminar Director. A brochure describing the seminar, together with registration materials, will be mailed in early October 2002.

2003 CCAS Special Seminar on Internationalization

In late May 2003 a special seminar will be co-sponsored by CCAS and The American University of Paris in Paris, France. Representatives of CCAS and the Association of American International Colleges and Universities (AAICU) are encouraged to attend this seminar on internationalization of the academy. Joseph H. Danks (Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, Kent State University) and Marc Montheard (Associate Dean, American University of Paris) are co-directors. The seminar is open to academics deans and/or senior decanal staff. Registration will be limited to forty-eight (48) participants with a limit of one representative from each CCAS member institution. Sessions will be held on the campus of The American University of Paris. Registrants will reside at the Mercure Paris Tour Eiffel Suffren, just opposite the Eiffel Tower. A brochure with registration forms, hotel and seminar information will be mailed to all CCAS members in early October 2002.

2003 CCAS Seminar for Department Chairs

This seminar is a forum in which chairs examine the art of departmental administration through close interaction with colleagues from other institutions and disciplines. Presentations by experienced departmental chairs focus on techniques as well as models of administration. A single seminar for chairs will be held from July 10-12, 2003 at the Minneapolis Hilton in downtown Minneapolis, Minnesota. Ted Wendt (Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire) is the Seminar Director

2003 CCAS Seminar for New Deans

This seminar provides a forum in which new or recently appointed deans can examine the art of college administration in consultation with college and university administrators of wide institutional experience. Seminar sessions emphasize techniques as well as ideal models of administration. The seminar is open to academics deans and their senior decanal staff. A single seminar for new deans will be held from July 13-16, 2003 at the Minneapolis Hilton in downtown Minneapolis, Minnesota. Mel Netzhammer (Dean, Faculty of Arts and Humanities, SUNY College at Buffalo) is the director of this seminar.

2003 CCAS Annual Meeting

The CCAS Annual Meeting for 2003 will be held November 12-15, 2002 at the Hilton in the Walt Disney World Resort, Lake Buena Vista, Florida. Panels, workshops, and plenary sessions fill three days with networking and professional development opportunities. A committee headed by the President-elect of CCAS determines the program. The preliminary program and registration materials will be mailed in late July or early August 2003.

For information about these and other CCAS activities please visit the CCAS website, www.ccas.net, from which you may download registration forms. Alternatively phone 480-727-6064 or fax 480-727-6078 for information.

Membership Renewal Update

The CCAS office received renewal information from most institutions in time to make the deadline for the CCAS Membership Directory. For those institutions that did not submit their member information to the CCAS office by the deadline, only the institution, college, and mailing address information was included in the Membership Directory. Decanal information that could not be verified was not included in the directory.

If you have new decanal staff since submitting your member data, please provide their contact information to the CCAS office so we can enter them into the mailing database and the "Members Only" database on the web site.

CANDIDATES FOR CCAS OFFICES, Washington, DC, November 2001

For President

P. Geoffrey Feiss, Dean, Arts and Sciences, College of William and Mary. Geoff Feiss has been Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and Professor of Geology at the College of William and Mary since 1997. Prior to moving to William and Mary, he was professor of and chair of Geology and then, for five years, Senior Associate Dean for Planning and Budgets at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He taught at Albion College from 1970-1975. His research interests are in geochemistry, mineral resources, and issues related to global sustainability. In addition, he is active in a number of projects involving secondary and university science education and in a variety of environmental geoscience and science policy committees at the national level. He has attended CCAS meetings since 1995, is a member of the CCAS Board of Directors, and program chair for the 2002 Annual Meeting.

For President-Elect

Roosevelt Newson, Dean, College of Fine Arts, Illinois State University. A fifteen-year veteran of CCAS, Roosevelt Newson's participation runs the gamut from registrant at the dean's seminar to Board member. Currently serving as Coordinator for the Department Chairs Seminar, Newson has participated in panel discussions and case studies at several recent annual meetings. Appointed in 1999 as Dean of the College of Fine Arts at Illinois State University, Newson's previous administrative appointments include five years as Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at Georgia Southern University and six years as Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania. An ACE Fellow (American Council on Education) at SUNY-Binghamton in 1987, Newson remains active with ACE. He served as a member ACE's Alumni Affairs committee for the Council of Fellows and as Chair of the Policy and Priorities committee. Formerly a full-time concert pianist, Newson maintains a limited schedule of concerts and performances with symphony orchestras.

For Director

Barbara Couture, Dean, College of Liberal Arts, Washington State University. Barbara Couture has been Dean of Liberal Arts and Professor of English at Washington State University since 1998. She received her bachelors (1970), masters (1973), and doctoral degrees (1980) in English Language and Literature from the University of Michigan--Ann Arbor. Previously, she was a faculty member for 18 years at Wayne State University, where she was promoted to Professor of English in 1994 and held appointments for a six-year period as Associate Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Associate Dean of the College of Lifelong Learning. Her research interests include rhetorical theory, technical writing, and composition studies. She has received two national book awards, including the 2000 Outstanding Book Award of the Conference on Composition and Communication for Toward a Phenomenological Rhetoric: Writing, Profession and Altruism. She currently serves on the editorial boards of four refereed journals. Couture has been a member of CCAS since 1998; she has presented on two CCAS panels and has chaired case study sessions for three national meetings. At present, she is chair of the CCAS Committee on Research Universities.

Joseph H. Danks, Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Kent State University. Joe Danks received his B.A. from DePauw University in 1965, majoring in psychology and philosophy, and his Ph.D. from Princeton University in 1968 in experimental psychology. That fall semester, he started as an assistant professor at Kent State University, where he has remained for the rest of his professional career, becoming a full professor in 1977. He also has been a visiting professor at Princeton and Stanford universities, and at the University of Warsaw and the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. In 1996, following a national search, Joe was appointed Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He has contributed to the program of the annual meeting for the past 6 years, participated in the CCAS seminars for New Deans, Media, Strategic Planning, Fiscal Issues), served on the Committee for Research Universities, facilitated at both Seminars for New Deans in 1999 and 2000, chaired the Fiscal Review Committee in 2001, organized the Deans' Seminar on Internationalization, and has served on the Board of Directors since 2000. In addition to being active in CCAS, he also has participated in several national projects on change in higher education sponsored variously by the ACE and the Pew and Kellogg Foundations.

Marlene Gottlieb, Dean, Division of Arts and Humanities, Lehman College of the City University of New York (CUNY). Marlene Gottlieb has been Dean of Arts & Humanities at Lehman College since 1997. Prior to that, she was chair of the Department of Languages and Literatures at Lehman from 1990-97. She is a Professor of Spanish and teaches regularly in the CUNY Doctoral Program in Hispanic and Luso-Brazilian literatures. Her research interests are in contemporary Latin American poetry (especially, Chilean), modernism, and the Don Juan theme. Her special area of higher education expertise is foreign language education. She has attended

CCAS meetings since 1998 and served on the CCAS Committee on Comprehensive Universities from 1999-2001. She is presently a member of the CCAS Committee on Metropolitan Urban Universities. She presented at the CCAS annual meetings in 1998, 2000, and 2001 and is scheduled to participate in two panels at the 2002 meeting.

Richard J. Hoffmann, Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Nebraska at Lincoln. Richard Hoffmann has been Dean of Arts and Sciences at UNL since 2001. Previously, he was Dean of Arts and Sciences at the State University of New York at Albany (1998-2001), Associate Dean (1993-97) and Interim Dean (1997-98) of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Iowa State University, where he also spent most of his faculty career. He is a biologist (Ph.D., Stanford) with interests in population biology and microevolution. Dean Hoffmann has attended every CCAS meeting since 1993. He has served on panels on information technology (1996) and on making the transition from Associate Dean to Dean (2000). Dick attended the New Deans Seminar in Williamsburg in 1998 and served three years on the Issues and Resolutions Committee, chairing it briefly at the end of his term in 2001.

Elise B. Jorgens, Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Western Michigan University. Elise B. Jorgens has been Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Western Michigan University since January of 1996. Prior to that she was Associate Dean of the same college for four years following fourteen years as a faculty member in Western Michigan's Department of English. Dean Jorgens is completing her first term as a member of the Board of CCAS. She has been an active participant in CCAS meetings for the past ten years, including numerous presentations and case-study sessions. Dean Jorgens has participated in CCAS Seminars for New Deans, Deans, A&S and Education Deans, and Deans and Fiscal Officers. She has also been a presenter at the CCAS Chairs' Seminar and New Deans' Seminar, and she served as Director of the Deans' Seminar for two years.

Mary Ellen Mazey, Dean, College of Liberal Arts, Wright State University.

Mary Ellen Mazey has been Dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Wright State since the Fall of 1998. Prior to that she served as Chair of the Department of Urban Affairs and Geography and founding director of the Center for Urban and Public Affairs. In 1996-97, she served as the Director of the Office of University Partnerships at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. As a member of CCAS, she has been on the Membership Committee, led case studies session, and served on panels at the Annual meeting. During the summer of 2001 she served as a facilitator for the Seminars for New Deans held in Williamsburg and San Diego.

Ted Wendt, Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, University of Wisconsin - Eau Claire. Previous decanal posts have included: Associate Dean of Humanities & Fine Arts at California State University - Chico; Dean of the School of Fine Arts & Communication at Cameron University; and Dean of the College of Fine Arts & Communication at Murray State University. A member of CCAS since 1992, Ted attended the 1993 CCAS Seminar for New Deans in San Diego. He was a CCAS presenter at the 1993 Cincinnati meeting, a panel chair at the 1994 Portland meeting, the Case Studies Coordinator for the 1995 Albuquerque meeting, and a member of the Conference Planning Committee for the 1996 Philadelphia meeting. He is the immediate past Chair of the CCAS Committee on Comprehensive Institutions, and is succeeding Dean Roosevelt Newson as director of the CCAS summer Seminar for Department Chairs. Ted is currently a member of the CCAS Board, elected last year to fill a one-year vacancy.

Michael Zimmerman, Dean, College of Letters and Science, University of Wisconsin Oshkosh. Michael Zimmerman has been Dean of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh since 1992. Prior to moving to Oshkosh, he served as Associate Dean at Oberlin College for three years where he also spent 12 years on the faculty in the Department of Biology. He is currently the head of the University of Wisconsin System (UWS) Collaborative Language Program, a collaborative endeavor using distance education technology to bring less commonly taught languages to under-served campuses. He is also the co-founder of the UWS Women and Science annual Curriculum Reform Institute. As a nationally syndicated newspaper columnist, he has written extensively on environmental issues and issues at the interface between science and society. Zimmerman has attended every CCAS annual meeting since 1996 and participated as a panel member at the 2001 meeting.
